SITUATION:

Woodnesborough is a small village located in the district of Dover, Kent, England, near the town of Sandwich. It is a picturesque rural area with a charming, peaceful atmosphere. The village is surrounded by scenic countryside and offers a glimpse into traditional English village life.

Sandwich is a historic town located in Kent, in the southeast of England, known for its rich heritage and charming atmosphere. Situated along the River Stour, Sandwich boasts a well-preserved medieval town center, which is designated as a conservation area, featuring many original buildings dating back to the Middle Ages. The town is famous for its narrow streets, picturesque quayside, and beautiful surrounding countryside.

Historically, Sandwich was one of the Cinque Ports, a group of coastal towns that played a key role in England's maritime history. Today, it is a popular destination for both residents and visitors, offering a blend of historical significance and modern amenities. The town has a thriving local community, with a weekly market offering fresh produce, meats, and other local goods. Sandwich is home to some of the UK's most prestigious golf courses, including the Royal St George's Golf Club, which has hosted the Open Championship multiple times. The town is also close to Sandwich Bay, a nature reserve area with scenic walking paths and wildlife.

The town offers a range of shops, cafes, and restaurants, and is well-connected with good transport links, including a mainline station providing fast access to London and Ashford. Its proximity to the beautiful Kent coast and countryside makes it a sought-after location for both living and tourism.

The cathedral city of Canterbury is just thirteen miles to the west and is a vibrant, cosmopolitan city with a thriving city centre offering a wide array of high street brands alongside a diverse mix of independent retailers, cafes, and international restaurants. The city also offers a fine selection of sporting, leisure, and recreational amenities, including the refurbished Marlowe Theatre.
